Compulsory REVISION comments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Kindly check the spelling of scientific names Correct the grammatical mistakes in abstract Add pre-treatment details in brief Include the Bacterial genera images In addition, add biochemical tests images. So that it will be authentic Add details about statistical design which you have been performed
Minor REVISION comments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You can use statistical tools such as Design expert software (screening, optimization and characterization) or MATLAB. So that interpretation of data will be clear. For better understanding you can use XRD analysis (Crystallinity Index), FTIR analysis. So that results will be more reliable
Optional/General comments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Before and after pre-treatment of banana and plantain peels, better you can go with SEM images. And so differences will be observed clearly. For bio-fuel production sugar analysis plays a crucial role. So that make use of HPLC studies.
