Compulsory REVISION comments	The manuscript is qualitative assessment of phytochemicals in medicinal plants used for reproductive health in Kamaroon.I appreciate the volume of efforts taken by the authors. However the study is too preliminary. Almost all plants irrespective of medicinal or other use may have secondary metabolite class of compounds which is quiet common. The authors have not attempted to screen these plant extracts using bioassay pertinent to reproductive health. No quantitative measurement of flavonoids/phenolic have been attempted. All these largely reduce the merit of the manuscript. Finally the" Note" section stated has no connection with this study and to be removed.
