Compulsory REVISION comments	Dear Author, I have received your manuscript. I must decline the manuscript for publication in JPRI at this time. The major reason for this decision is that narrative reviews can often include an element of selection bias. Systematic reviews typically involve a detailed and comprehensive plan and search strategy derived a priori, with the goal of reducing bias. On the other hand, I believe that the identification of all clinical manifestations of COVID 19 is essential for an early diagnosis and the adoption of preventive measures. I would suggest to plan a systematic review conducted according to the preferred reporting items for systematic reviews and meta-analyzes (PRISMA)* recommendations. If you wish to revise your manuscript thoroughly in accordance with the comments, I would be pleased to reconsider a new version of your article. It will then be considered a new submission to the Journal and will be subject to re-review. Kinds regards PhD Daniel Fatela-Cantillo Facultativo Especialista de Área en Análisis Clínicos en Hospitales Universitarios Virgen del Rocío, Sevilla, España. * Cyranoski D.
