Compulsory REVISION comments	Although the concept presented by authors is good, the whole presentation, from a computational point of view, is weak. The main issue involves de incomplete approach of the computational protocol. Not many information is provides as far as concerns: a) the number of HBs computed, b) the estimation of the number of π interactions, c) the changes on the structure-drug and enzyme upon interaction. Besides that there are several spelling mistakes and a confusing use of bold types in references.
