PART 1: Review Comments

Compulsory REVISION comments	Language of introduction needs revision and improvement. Relations between positioning and incidence of nausea vomiting is not clearly explained. In material and methods when our primary objective is to study incidence of nausea and vomiting in relation to positioning then why prophylactic ondansetron is given and post surgery if nausea and vomiting occurs it could be multifactorial like pain etc and how author can relate these incidences with positioning. Statistical test used are not appropriate .fischer exact test is used instead of chisquare in two groups with less than 30 patients,and Mann whitney U test instead of Kruskal wallis test. Discussion also needs improvement and should more elaborate. Lee's study tells about bevel position relation with headache and not about sitting and lateral position , so it should clarified. Needs to be backed by more relevant studies
Minor REVISION comments	Language improvement
Optional/General comments
