Compulsory REVISION comments	In general, the information presented is pertinent and novel, I still think that several things need to be corrected in a way, but in terms of content, it is a very pertinent work with high social impact content, I think it presents what is necessary for its publication, I think you just have to take care of your writing a little more. A file in Word with indicated observations is attached
Minor REVISION comments	There are images that are not so sharp and I suggest adding the typification of the plant. A file in Word with indicated observations is attached
Optional/General comments	In general, it is information that is worth publishing, just take care of the use of commas, periods and check very well the type of references within the text that the journal marks, since it presents two types of Vancouver and APA, within the writing.
