| Compulsory REVISION comments | The author should provide a sequential explanation of the changes in influenza viruses over time so that the reader can understand the changes of the influenza viruses. The author must give the explanation of the statement “a new influenza virus appears in every twelve month and leads to flu pandemic”. The author should give the information about the symptom differences for infection of every type of virus. The information can be provided in table. The author should also give the information about the parameter value such as Transmission associated indicators (number of regenerations, attack rate, serial interval, latent time, incubation period, infectious period) and extremity (hospitalisation rate, mortality rate). The information can be provided in table. In conclusion, the author gave the information about SARS-Co V and SARS-CoV-2 but in main text, the author didn't give the information about both. |                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Minor REVISION comments      | I think the author should change the title of this manuscript because Some influenza outbreaks do not recur seasonally, such as flu caused by viruses A: H1N1 and H5N1. I recommend deleting the word “seasonal” from the current title. The author should give the virus type for every flu epidemic such Spanish flu.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Optional/General comments    | The author must add the newest reference about influenza epidemic at most 10 years from now and the total number of references must follow the rules.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                               |
