Compulsory REVISION comments	This is a review on endogenous endophthalmitis in COVID-19 patients, with a novel theme and current situation. However, the author did not fully reflect the relationship between endophthalmitis and COVID-19, even citing some articles about COVID-19. There is a lot of repetition in the article. Including the abstract, the entire article needs to be restructured. The full name should be spelled out when the abbreviation is used for the first time, and the full name does not need to be spelled out repeatedly.
