Compulsory REVISION comments	So many repetition of sentences, phrases and paragraph. The volume of the article should actually be about half of its present volume. The discussion on the management is rather scanty and vague. No measure was made of the use of anti-inflammatory agents in acute conditions, and pre and post surgical repairs to reduce the level of edema of the surrounding structures. The need of voice-rest to reduce edema in acute cases was also not mentioned. The pre-operative work up should have included the laboratory assessment of the functions of the thyroid glands, liver and kidneys ad, radiological tests of the head, neck and thoracic structures. Prognosis in terms of acuteness, need for surgery or otherwise, patient's age and weight/BMI were not discussed. The discussion on the anatomy of the vocal cords should be streamlined and presented in a concise pattern.
Minor REVISION comments	Few spellings errors. References need to be reviewed and brought to journal style and standard
Optional/General comments	Manuscript needs major revision to meet the minimal journal standard.
