Abstract: In this version, the conclusion is not scientifically sound, since no research is required to understand that the level of awareness about the health safety at the workplace among health care workers working in the any laboratory is the vital parameter to ensure occupational safety and security. Such a formulation of the conclusion is not admissible. The output should reflect the information: - Was the hypothesis confirmed? - if so, how was it achieved? - if not, why is there not enough awareness and how to improve the situation?
