Compulsory REVISION comments	Even though the work is a literature review, it is necessary that the authors put in the introduction the importance of medicinal plants for the Indian societies, and what the use of this natural material represents in Indian culture. It is necessary that, in the presentation of the data, some information about why some compounds have better efficacy than others be given. At the end, I suggest that the authors put the motivation that led them to build this work, and also the contribution that this work offers to the technical and scientific knowledge about the use and importance of medicinal plants in Indian society.
