| Compulsory REVISION comments | Thanks dear authors for work & for the desire to publish them, always a noble gesture. I have following points to bring to your kind attention. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Improvement in English language would make the manuscript more pleasant to the reader. 2. TFARP is not at a new technique, the first paper was published in 2007 & since then several other researchers reported their series too. 3. How many of the older girls underwent single stage procedures are worth mentioning here & what were the complications these older girls suffered from? 4. What scoring system was followed to comment the degree of continence? How the continence was measured in younger babies under the age they attained continence? 5. Any explanations from your part for the occurrence of prolapse & anal stenosis in your study? | |
