Improve the summary explaining in a broader way the methodology used. You can go up to 300 words. Materials and methods: It must describe whether male or female animals were used with their weight, and origin of the animals (from which center they come) with their respective quality certificate, it does not mention what technique was used to sacrifice the animals after the trial. Results and Discussion. In table 1 it does not explain anything, it only places a series of chemical formulas, which only a pure chemist would understand, you must take into account that the articles are available to anyone who is interested in them, and that they are not necessarily researchers, if not also high school or university students; it is not discussed with other anti-inflammatories from other investigations. Conclusion. The first section does not go, it must go in the introduction; the conclusion does not agree with that of the abstract. References: It has 28.5% of references updated to the last 5 years, the minimum allowed is 50%, the link of the page in which it was consulted and the date are missing.
