| Minor REVISION comments | The authors present a study on the prevalence of gastroparesis symptoms in patients with type 2 diabetes. This research is interesting because it shows that gastroparesis symptoms are common in patients with diabetes; also, some predisposing factors are analysed. However, it should be improved for publication. There are some issues with drafting and language. There are words misspelling, inadequate use of articles, missing some commas, and other writing errors (highlighted in the document). It is advisable to use the term "patients with type 2 diabetes" or "T2DM patients" rather than "type 2 diabetic patients". The abbreviations T1DM and T2DM should be used throughout the document. The reference style should be adapted to the journal; the citations should be indicated by number in brackets [1], not in superscript. Moreover, the reference list should be uniform according to the journal guidelines. | |
