Compulsory REVISION comments	The article is interesting, it brings important information about the activities carried out by pharmacists in the Philippines. It is an example of active involvement from the point of view of pharmacists, by organizing patient counseling activities under the name of "Telefarmacie". I ask the authors if these actions included under the counseling activity have been measured, if there are statistics made in this regard. The involvement of pharmacists in the immunization program is also noteworthy as an extremely favorable action in all activities carried out by Philippine pharmacists. The authors should answer whether this immunization program also included the collection of data on adverse reactions.
Minor REVISION comments	From my point of view, some minor changes are needed, presented below (in part 4)
