Compulsory REVISION comments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The statement of problem stated that the main gap is the updated data to recover the recent years but in the study used data till 2019, where as we are in 2022. Moreover, the study done by Efang, and Jeremiah (2020) done till 2018 is not that much difference to 2019. (Need to be revised). - The citation that used under "The Balance of Payments Theory of Exchange Rate" the link does not open and I advice to replace it with scientific article citation. - Interpret the reason to use KPSS in order to conduct the stationary test, while there are different test might be used for this purpose. - Table under (Vector Error Correction Model (VECM), equation 1 need to be revised and probably presented. - The study focuses on previous studies that related to Nigerian case only, what about other studies that have been done on other economies (developed and developing), I advice to extend the empirical review to contain rather than Nigerian economy.
